With rapid strides Caughnawaga wore fields and down, although the old campaigner loose. With rapid security of the mare hung on gamely, when suddenly Caltrigorm began to stop. Then Redfern went to a hard drive, and with only Beldame to beat, Mr. Sanford's noted horse went on to victory by a length and a half, while Beldame came home three lengths in front of Mr. Paget's colt. Caughnawaga ran the distance in 3:00 4-5, three seconds better than Beldame's time for this race last year, but 2 4-5 seconds behind Afficiander's report for the race and track when he defeated Waterboy in 1631. In all cases the competition was close and exciting. A dead heat occurred in the inter-mediate double gig, and the row off will take place to-morrow night. The eight shell was a stirring race between three crews. Great doings were expected of the crew in which Titus rowed, but the quasi expert's combination was badly beaten. In the eight oared barge race the boats carried eight women as well as men; there was lots of fun, and the fair ones who braved the terrors of a ducking screamed when their summer dresses got saturated with the brine. They accused the men of splashing purposely, but the men said the accusation was groundless.

Harry L., at the prohibitive odds of 3 to 10, won the free for all in straight heats. In the final heat of this race there was a piece of sportsmanship that roused the crowd. Funston made a bad break on the first turn. Nerva Patchen had been withdrawn, and there was third money for Funston if he kept inside the distance flag. When about to be shut out both McGrath and Phillips pulled up and walked in, thus allowing the New Jersey horse to land third money.

GREAT DEMONSTRATION OVER CAUGHNAWAGAS VICTORY.

parture of Betters From Saratoga.

SARATOGA, Aug. 15:- Artful's absence from the Saratoga Cup race this afternoon brought about a contest probably better than if she had run. In fact, it was the best race for this particular event since it was instituted. The cheers that greeted the well earned victory of the Sanford representative, Caughnawaga, showed how well pleased the crowd is when any horse from this stable wins. It was a tribute that came from winners and losers alike, and most protounced in the matter of enthusiasm were the town folk of old Gen. Sanford, who as usual were out in goodly numbers, coming up from Amsterin goodly numbers, coming up from Amster dam in a special train.

Their delight when Caughnawagh's num-

Their delight when Caughnawagas number was displayed by the judges brought something new in the way of racetrack demonstrations. They rushed down from the grand stand in hundreds, shouting for the prowess of the home horse, and the old General went among the carpet weavers taking the congratulations with a relish that was a pleasure fo see. Each time this stable furnishes a victor, we get an exhibition of the sentiment in racing. Of course tion of the sentiment in racing. Of course the Amsterdamites let their loyalty include a financial investment, but it is to see the home colors in front that brings them here. The meeting has been a very successful one for them. On opening day the victory of Caughnawaga in the Saratoga handicap sent them on their way shouting the merits of the home bred horses. When Mohawk II. captured the Saratoga Special the following Stunday, they were again on hand, and once captured the Saratoga Special the following Saturday they were again on hand, and once more had a chance to sing the praises of the Mohawk Valley as a breeding place for thoroughbreds. Last Saturday, when Mohawk II. captured the Hopeful Stakes, they again carried away the coin of the layers. Now, with the cup added to their list of trophies, they are sure that there is just one phies, they are sure that there is just one place in the entire country to breed winners, and that is at the Sanford farm. Many and that is at the Sanford farm. Many clever judges are about willing to agree with them, for year after year we have the same tale to tell. The stable comes here direct from the farm and manages to carry away the lion's share of the laurels.

As for Artful's failure to go to the post.

explanations differ. There was some grumbling at the filly's name being sent out when it was known in her stable that she was not to be sent to the post, but this was done, if it was done intentionally, without the sanction of the management. Trainer Rogers very properly declined to make any best be could do was to take third money. We lengths, away. He was held as which it is a whole and the street, while Janes R. Keene 9 Oyama, as usual, was a disapolutinet. The time was alled the sixty of the was alled the sixty of the was alled to the sixty of the was alled to statement, and the best explanation obtain-able is that the entry clerk simply sent her chances. At this figure she had a hardful of followers of the sort that are forld of shoot-ing at the moon. W. J. Thorpe, a well known Brooklyn hardicapper, was one of the few that were tempted by the odds. He bet $20 with Leo Mayer and after the race was paid

$2,000.

R. A. Smith lost his filly Peggy O'Neil after she had been beaten in the opening race. She was claimed by J. Grant Lyman, who was represented in the race by Raibert. It may be that this will turn out a good purchase, but it really looks another case of exalted value.

She was claimed by J. Grant Lyman, who was represented in the race by Ralbert. It may be that this will turn out a good purchase but it really looks another case of exalted value.

Mr. Belmont's offer to throw open the stables at Belmont Park for the use of the horsemen that could not find quarters in the vicinity of Sheephead Bar, and to provide a train service every day to carry the horses to the races back and forth, is going to be taken advantage of by a number of trainers. Already the Asbury Stable and Edward Peters with his own lot and those he races for the Speedway Stable have asked for quarters, and by the latter part of next week there will be quite a colony quartered at the new home of the Westchester Racing Association.

Brush Up's victory was a surprise to the form players and it should not have been for this filly when she raced last on the big tracks was able to hold her own with a pretty shifty lot of sprinters when in at light weight. Since the spring meeting at Beanings she has been at Baltimore, Bufalo, and Providence, and this probably explains the long price against her. It was surely a case of out of sight, out of mind.

There was a thinning out of the crowd to-night, and this will be the tale with the departure of all the trains for the remainder of the time set apart for the remainder of the thin set and the losers by the fact that the broads and finding the winners, are the cause of these desertions. The layers still reports a good business, but it looks like a last effort, of the plungers to get even. No meeting heid the years has been so costly to those that rate as the clever division. This is explained by some of the losers by th number of norses sent over for the session, and they are anxious to get in early and not find the announcement No room," as is sure to be the case. Application for stalls can be made to the secretary, William P. Riggs, 213 Courtland street, Baltimore, Md.

BLACKBURNANDLANGFORDDRAW Interesting Fifteen Round Bout Held in Chester, Pa.

Jack Blackburn of Philadelphia and Sam Langford of Boston, both colored, met in a fifteen round battle at the Leiperville A. C., Chester, Pa., on Friday night. The result was a draw. In the early rounds Langford was a draw. In the early rounds Langford was the aggressor. He did not accomplish much because of Blackburn's great cleverness. All of his leads and rushes were adroitly blocked.

In the tenth round Blackburn began to fight back. He landed often on Langford's body and had the latter guessing. Blackburn reached Langford's stomach with excellent effect in the eleventh, compelling his rival to hug. In the final rounds the battle was exceptionally fast. The last round was particularly hot. In the opinion of many had there been a verdict the oply fair one would have been an even break.

Football at Carlisle Indian School. The Carlisle Indians did pretty well on the gridiron last fall, and this fall they hope to do still better. It is expected that there will be more weight on this year's eleven, and additional avoirdupois will be a help to the red ditional avoirdupois will be a help to the red men. They always are fast, but have not had the weight of most of their pale face rivals. Fremont and Tomahawk, ends: Bowen and Exendine, tackles: Dillon and White, guards: Schouchuk and Kennedy, centers: Libby, quarterback: Sheldon and Hendricks, half-backs, and Lubo, fullback, will all be back this year, excepting possibly White. These men with new material will it is thought give a promising squad with which to select an eleven. There will probably be three sets of backs from which to choose the men for behind the line for the more important games. A couple of new ends may be developed and a new center found. All told, the prospects are very good.

Also Poor Fielding and Base Munning by Home Team-Sorrow Assuaged by Pittsburg's Defeat in Brooklyn-Philadelphias and Bostons Win Their Games. The New York Nationals fell by the wayside yesterday in the third encounter of the series with the Chicagos, but the ensuing sorrow was assumed by the downfall of the Pittaburgs in Brooklyn. Each game of the Brooklyn. Brooklyn-Pittsburg series was won and lost by one run. The Philadelphias won from St. Louis and the Bostons from Cincinnati.

first. The Chicagos made one in the eighth on Hofman's base on balls and steal and Kling's hit.

The Champs failed to realize on an opening in the eighth. A mistake in base running was the cause. Clarke singled and reached second, when Tinker dropped Hofman's assist on Wittee's force. Strang waiked, and every corner was inhabited. Donlin's grounder to Chance forced the base runners, and Clarke came home, but Wiltse, instead of going to third, ran back to second. Apparently he thought Donlin had flied to Chance. All Chance had to do after souching first and retring Donlin was to throw over to Casey, and Wiltse was doubled up.

A batch of crude errors gave the Chicagos a run in the ninth. Mertes muffed Casey's fly. The doctor was nipped stealing; then Chance walked. His steal brought forth a bad throw from Clarke, on which he rushed to third, and on Devlin's failure to stop Donlin's return he cantered home. The BROOKLYN, 3; PITTSBURG, 2.

The Brooklyns took kindly to Hillebrand's pitching yesterday and beat the Pittsburgs in a close game. Batch's work on foul flies was a brilliant feature of the contest, which was well played. Batch batted in Brooklyn's first run with a three baser after Hall had walked. Clarke's triple and a wild pitch gave the Pittsburgs a run in the first inning. Dobbs's muff and Leach's hit gave them another in the third. In the eighth the diligent Batch doubled to right, Gessler fanned and Malay drew four balls. Bergen singled, scoring Hatch and Malay and winning the game. The score:

Championship Play at Van Cortlandt Park in September. Three national championships in pole are to be decided on the one public field at Van Cortlandt Park next month, the club cham-pionship, first played in 1895; the junior, which dates back to 1900, and the open, for teams made up irrespective of the club affiliations of the players, which was started last year. The tournament will be from Sept. 18 to 30. The junior event, for the cup presented by Samuel D. Warren, will first be decided and the winning team will be included in the draw the winning team will be included in the draw for the club championship and be a post entry. Players who take part in the junior are not eligible to play in the club championship except as members of this team.

The club championship is for a cup presented by William Waldorf Astor through the Tuxedo Club, which is held for the year by the winning team, the same as the Warren cup, and there are individual prizes outright in both events. This will be played second, and the open championship will furnish the closing matches, in which the prizes are individual cups presented by the Polo Association. tion.
Entries for the juntyr and open close on Sept. 4 and for the club championship on Aug. 30. All the contests are for teams of four, without handleaps.

Bench Show Ignores Specialty Clubs. An innovation in bench shows, the ignoring of all specialty clubs for prizes, has bee made by the Taunton, Mass., Kennel Club, which holds its show there on Sept 4, 5 and 6, during the county fair. In other words, the specials in all breeds are open to all and none specials in an precess are open to all and none idented to members of any specialty club. There are three money prizes, the first of $15, in each class, and E. M. Oldham is to do the bulk of the judging. If in return the specialty clubs should boycott the Taunton show the situation would be a novel one in the benching world.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The New Yorks beat out Chicago to-day in a ten inning battle. New York's harder hitting was bainced by two bad errors committed by Doo Newton, and so the game hung in the belance till the locals gave way in the tenth session. The game was played on a soaked field and heavy showers. With two out in the first round Elberfeld singled and came all the way home on a hot swat into right by Williams. That run was all for both feams till the fifth. In this inning Kleinow drew a pass, Newton fanned, Conroy and Keeler hit safe and the squeeze play was prettily worked, Kleinow scoring as Elberfeld tapped the ball. In Chicago's half Tannehill cracked one hard and Dundon took four balls. Newton caught Smith's pop fly, and trying for a double play threw wild, letting Tannehill reach third, whence he scored on Jones's grounder. The Sox tied it up in the sixth. Davis gained free transportation and stole second. Callahan was easy and Davis was called on Donahue's grounder. McFarland proinder. The sou tend if up in the sixth.

Cheebro took the slab in the eighth and the game waded along till the tenth. Then Conroy shot out a single and Keeler beat out his bunt. Elberfeld's liner went like a bullet.
Holmes, who hai replaced Jones, owing to a row with the umpire, made a grand try, but the ball got by and Conroy scored. Then Williams popped out, and Keeler a moment
